One Foot in Perfected Eden

[W]henever in the Song of Songs the lovers step outdoors or imagine themselves there, they enter an Eden, a nature furnished only with beautiful, fruitful, and sweet-smelling flora and populated by fauna far from red in tooth and claw, where even rainy weather appears as something just past that brought the flowers. Also, the comparison of the lover to roe-stage, or gazelle, instead of, for example, lion or stallion—far greater compliments in macho societies—evokes the freedom and harmlessness of beasts in that first garden.

The love between the Lord and Israel is conflicted like all loves that must play out in this age, and other parts of the Song of Songs show that. Yet where the Lord is, there is what Christians have come to call “heaven”: the anticipation with God of the final kingdom and just so of Eden’s fulfillment, of the beautiful and peaceable kingdom. Where the Lord comes, in the reading of the Torah or the celebration of the Eucharist or in any of a hundred events of his “real presence” among his people, something of the final and first-intended fulfillment opens to our experience; we are in “the gate of heaven,” as Martin Luther described the church. We have one foot in perfected Eden. And there we are even now one with the Lord.

—Robert W. Jenson, Song of Songs, Interpretation, A Bible Commentary for Teaching and Preaching.

Jesus Christ the Apple Tree

An 18th-Century Hymn

1. The tree of life my soul hath seen,
Laden with fruit and always green
The trees of nature fruitless be
Compared with Christ the apple tree.
2. His beauty doth all things excel:
By faith I know, but ne'er can tell
The glory which I now can see
In Jesus Christ the apple tree.
3. For happiness I long have sought,
And pleasure dearly I have bought
I missed of all; but now I see
'Tis found in Christ the apple tree.
4. I'm weary with my former toil,
Here I will sit and rest awhile:
Under the shadow I will be,
Of Jesus Christ the apple tree.
5. This fruit doth make my soul to thrive,
It keeps my dying faith alive;
Which makes my soul in haste to be
With Jesus Christ the apple tree.

* Passing of the Peace

Leader: The peace of Christ be with you.

People: And also with you.

(Children may exit through the pulpit doors for their classes.)

Christ Hath a Garden

Richard Farlee

Christ hath a garden walled around, A Paradise of fruitful ground,
Chosen by love and fenced by grace From out the world's wide wilderness.
Like trees of spice his servants stand, There planted by his mighty hand;
By Eden's gracious streams, that flow To feed their beauty where they grow.
Awake, O wind of heav'n and bear Their sweetest perfume through the air:
Stir up, O south, the boughs that bloom, Till the beloved Master come:
That he may come, and linger yet Among the trees that he hath set;
That he may evermore be seen To walk amid the springing green.
